Author's Notes:
The random word generator gave me the word "message" today and I ran with it :)

His phone vibrates for the tenth time today. Another text message, no doubt.

But he's not listening.

Instead he's lying face down on his bed trying to block it out.

But it's not working because it continues to vibrate.

Waiting for him to pick up it and answer the repeated texts and calls.

But he can't be bothered right now.

He's not ready to face it. To face them.

But they don't seemingly care.

Questions, questions, questions. None of which he wants to answer.

But it doesn't matter because the vibrating continues on and on.

And he stopped caring anymore.
